

Infringement stage

49 days¹

Infringement Notice

Penalty Reminder Notice

+ $25.80*

Enforcement stage

28 days¹

Notice of Final Demand

+ $133.40*

Warrant stage

Warrants do not expire

Enforcement Warrant

7 Day Notice

You must take action within 7 days

Expiry of a 7 Day Notice

+ $58.40*

Your options available during the 3 stages of the fines lifecycle

Pay

Nominate

You can apply to the enforcement agency² to nominate the responsible driver. For camera-detected vehicle offences, Victoria Police (the Traffic Camera Office) is the enforcement agency.

You can no longer nominate the person responsible once your fine reaches the Enforcement or Warrant stage.

Go to court

You can apply to the enforcement agency to request for your matter to be referred to court. Fines Victoria has no role.

You can no longer request to take the matter to Court once your fine reaches the Enforcement or Warrant stage.

Request a review

If your fine is at Infringement stage, you can apply to the enforcement agency for an internal review. Fines Victoria has no role.

If your fine is at Enforcement or Warrant stage, you can apply to Fines Victoria for an enforcement review.

Payment arrangement

Work and development permit

Family violence scheme

If a 7 Day Notice expires, your only option is to pay.

If you can't pay, the Sheriff can:

Seize your goods

Sell your goods at a public auction

Arrest you

If you are arrested, you may be able to undertake community work, or you will be bailed to appear in court.

¹ These are minimum statutory requirements. In practice, these timeframes may be longer, depending on if/when an enforcement agency registers a fine, and if /when the Director, Fines Victoria applies for an enforcement warrant.

² Enforcement agency includes government agencies, councils, education and health organisations.

* Adjusted each July